

The National Native American Boarding School Healing Coalition

Request for Proposals Washington State Oral History Project Production Team Post Date: March 28, 2023

Purpose

The National Native American Boarding School Healing Coalition (NABS) is seeking proposals for the video recording and transcription of 30-40 interviews with Native peoples who attended and were impacted by the U.S. Indian boarding schools. Interviews will be conducted in the homeland of Tulalip Tribes located north of Everett and the Snohomish River and west of Marysville, Washington. This project is a pilot to demonstrate an effective model for documenting oral histories to be gathered across the United States in the next 12 months. Important dates:

- Proposal Deadline: April 9, 2023
- Selection Completed by: April 14, 2023
- Interview Implementation: April 24-28, 2023
- Transcription and Video Editing Completed by: May 15, 2023

About Us

NABS is boldly leading the movement for truth, justice and healing for Indigenous peoples impacted by U.S. Indian boarding schools. We are Indigenous led with 100% of the Board of Directors and Officers being Native American and Alaska Native.

- We are a coalition of 811 members and growing, including Tribal Nations, Tribal enrolled individuals, allies, and organizations.
- We use our coalition voice to educate others about the truth of the Indian boarding school policies, experiences, and genocidal legacy.
- We expose the truth about Indian boarding schools through research and education.
- We lead action towards justice and healing for our children, families, and communities.
- We advocate for accountability through policy change at all levels, including the call for a federal Truth and Healing Commission on Indian boarding schools.
- We make resources available to raise awareness and support healing from the intergenerational trauma Native peoples continue to experience.
- We are publicly launching the National Indian Boarding School Digital Archive (NIBSDA) this year, a first-of-its-kind Digital Asset Management System capable of organizing and displaying historical boarding school records and materials for every identified boarding school institution.

Visit <http://www.boardingschoolhealing.org> for more information about us, our strategic action plans, community impact, and resources.

Project Objectives

- Capture the lived experiences of narrators (boarding school survivors) in their own words as testimonies to deepen understanding among Indigenous relatives and the general public about the impacts of the federal Indian boarding schools.
- Recognize and honor narrators for sharing important information to be passed on from one generation to the next.
- Facilitate a healing-centered approach in co-creating audio and video records with narrators to prevent added trauma and provide the appropriate spiritual and mental health support during and after NABS's work in each state.
- Produce high quality video and accurate transcripts based on a collaborative editing process.

Scope of Work

The Video Production Team will work closely with NABS's Oral History Project Team, which will consist of a Project Director, Coordinators, Oral Historians who conduct the interviews, and the Director of Healing. The production team will:

- Develop recording protocols, space, and video design standards in partnership with NABS.
- Attend healing informed oral history training provided by NABS.
- Provide 1 producer and 2 videographers, each recording 3-4 interviews on site each day for 5 days, April 24-28. Interviews will be up to 2 hours in length.
- Set up 2 interview spaces each day, with a 3rd space as needed.
- Document narrator interviews in audio, transcription, and video.
- Coordinate transcription editing with NABS oral history interviewers.
- Provide NABS with final recordings and transcriptions by May 15.

Proposal Requirements

Proposers should have knowledge of the U.S. Indian boarding school history, legacy, and impacts, as well as an understanding of the resulting intergenerational trauma. All proposals should include the following:

- A summary of your qualifications and experience with similar types of projects.
- Your approach to complete the work.
- Biographies of production team members
- Equipment provisions
- Itemized budget and total amount to complete the work
 - NABS will cover expenses related to transportation and lodging, so you do not need to include this in your budget

- 3-5 sample videos showing your work
- 3 professional references

Note: Contractors are required to maintain their own General and Professional liability insurance including Media insurance, as well as Workers Compensation insurance in compliance with applicable laws.

For Questions

Send an email to oralhistoryproject@nabshc.org

To Submit a Proposal

Send via email by April 9, 2023, to oralhistoryproject@nabshc.org with Washington State OHPT in the subject line.

NABS is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to a work environment free of all forms of discrimination, harassment, and violence. All employment and contracting decisions are based on merit, competence, performance, and organization needs. NABS prioritizes work to empower and include people from Indigenous communities who have been impacted by U.S. Indian Boarding School policies. We are proud of our collaborative and wellness-focused culture where all people feel safe to bring their whole selves. Our culture attracts top talent with shared values that form the foundation of a great work environment!